Decline in Activity Reduces Demand and Results in Heavy Undertone.

STEEL IS WELL SUPPORTED

Its Decline Limited, But Its Heaviness Proves of Marked Sympathetic Effect.

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 19—A considerable falling off in speculative interest was the noticeable fact about to-day's stock market. The volumes contracted and the fluctuations in prices were harrower and more sluggish. The decline in activity reduced the demand for stocks and resulted in a heavy undertone without any narked pressure to sell. The general aced in a heavy undertone without any marked pressure to sell. The general action of the market was still much the same as for the two previous days. The appead of the price war in the steel ande failed to cause any wido movements the prices of securities, but it was the loasion of great concern nevertheless, inited States Steel preferred was eviently supported and its decline thus limed to 7-8, but the heaviness of that stock roved of marked sympathetic effect, and was a still an unsettling influence by its further recession in price and by the supposition of operators on the foor of the Stock Exchange. The most effective sustaining factor early was the large demand for Pennsylvania, which carried it to 121-14, the highest figure touched since the long decline reached after the new 15,000.00 stock issue. The grungers suctimized to the spring wheat disaster rumors in the late dealings and helped to make the closing easy.
